Deeply Formed

Ten Postures For Meaningful Travel

The point of travel is not going, but in returning enriched.

Travel has a wonderful capacity for renewal and inspiration. There is a kind of awakening that only happens when we leave behind what is familiar for a while. To nurture this kind of experience there are ten postures we prioritize in travels and experiences through Deeply Formed.

1 - Faith
Jesus is the source, substance and sustainer of all things. When he is central in our travels, the experience is deepened and becomes more meaningful and satisfying.

2 - Connection
We will experience history, nature and culture in ways that open us up to connect more deeply with God, ourselves, others and the world we live in. Travel cultivates intimacy while also widening our heart.

3 - Openness
Every age of the Christian movement in every place has its strengths and weaknesses, including our own. As we explore the arc of history we will seek to learn from past and present expressions of Christianity.

4 - Blessing
We go not as consumers but as ones sent to bless, learning from and loving the hosts, guides and fellow travellers we are fortunate to meet along the way.

5 - Honoring Difference
Group members will come from various denominations and be at different places in their faith journeys. Our emphasis is on Jesus—on what unites us—and charity amid any differences. It is not our role to analyze, fix, or save others in the group.

6 - Iconic & Local
We will visit major well known sites and also venture beyond well worn tourists paths for intimate meaningful experiences with local people and culture.

7 - Relaxed
This is not a frenetic skim the surface sight seeing trip. There will be time to pause, notice and savor what is before us. By slowing ourselves down we can see more and enjoy more.

8 - Reflective
We will have space for individual and group reflection to metabolize and internalize what we are experiencing. In this way we take more of the trip home with us.

9 - Flexibility
Travel can be full of surprises and we will work together to deliver meaningful experiences with whatever comes our way, positive or negative. Disruptions are invitations to unexpected graces.

10 - Enjoyment
Fun and play are basic to a healthy life. God has given us good gifts he wants us to enjoy. As we experience historic and cultural treasures we will have fun along the way.
